CHESS MEETINGS:

10th February
17th March
14th April

Meetings are held at CHS (except school holidays) at a staff room opposite the main entrance from 5.30pm to 7.00pm. All ex-students are welcome. And Elida gives out FREE chocolates to attendees!

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

CHESS 2002

Our reunion for this year was celebrated for the decades of the 80s and 90s. Camberwell High's longest serving teacher, Peter Frost, addressed the students and then conducted a tour of the new school.

CHESS is a "not for profit" and also a "not for loss" organisation. We fund our activities by charging enough (hopefully) to cover costs on any event that we run and invest our time and effort in data collection for our mail outs and archiving student records at the school.

Recent observations on organising our 80s and 90s reunion were that we need more telephoning of students from the respective years. This effort in communication is both expensive and time-consuming. Our aim is to facilitate communication by the building of a database of email addresses to our ex-students. This will be more cost effective than postage and telephone costs that face us at the present.

Again, I would welcome any ex-student to join our committee and mount a rival faction to unseat your current President. The current committee have been a faithful team of about a decade in service but are not seeking life tenure and new ideas and enthusiasm are welcomed. CHES meetings are held at the school on the second Monday of each month, commencing at 5.30pm. The school is represented by either the Principal, Ms Elida Brereton, or one of the Assistant Principals, Mr Ken Tenner or Mr Glen Linton.

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

We recently had our focus on our Year 12 students as they finished their formal classes and were the guests of the school at the Valedictory Luncheon. Later, they were praised in the presence of their peers, families and friends at the Valedictory Evening, where a packed house saw the several students awarded with major prizes: Outstanding Academic Achievement Award and also the CHESS Award went to Quince Chen; Principal's Award – Eleanor Bullen; Jurgen Tauchert Award - David Evans; Senior Writer's Award – Anna Dao; Senior Poetry Award – Katherine Neuendorf; Don Anderson Award – Hannah Payne; International Student Award – Quince Chen; C.H.E.S.S. Award – Katherine Neuendorf; Caltex All Rounder Award – Angela Webster; Citizenship Award – Amanda Davey. In addition, students, across all subjects and in many categories, received certificates for outstanding achievements, and their teachers, AP Ken Tenner, PTLs Tob Poyntz and Gail Frost, and I noted with much satisfaction the number of students who probably exceeded our and their expectations, as well as those always expected to do well. Cr. Jackie Fristacky, a former student of CHS and a most distinguished corporate lawyer, and School Council VP Lawrence Gilbert, spoke to the Year 12s on the night. Sam Daly's heartfelt reflection on how strong words to him from "Mr Tenner" some time ago (to the effect of "why don't you get off your backside and do something for your school!") had changed his life (and he'd done something!) was deemed a definite highlight of the night.

The Stage 2 Building Works (and destruction works!) are happening and students, staff and visitors are aware of the largish Administration portable against the front steps, the six "new" (read "very old") portables on the southern lawns next to the park, and the fencing along the northern (front) areas, that has closed off the north half of the courtyard. The successful tender was that of McGinley and Partners, who built our beautiful Arts/Technology/VCE/Music complex in 2000-01. The first job was the destruction of the stairs in the Old Building that lead to the flyover corridor and rooms: at the moment, the upstairs route between the two large brick buildings requires us to go up, then up again, along and then down just to access the connecting corridor! At the end of this work, there will be one sweeping set of stairs (!) and a level passage-way across to the other building. To allow for wheelchairs and also deliveries of heavy items, a lift will be inserted into the front of the younger major building. Alas, my foolish dream of a glass and bronze-fronted lift with bright lights that move, is being ignored totally.....!

Rooms 7 and 8 (ground floor Old Building) and Rooms 12, 13 and 14 above them will be closed off, as will Rooms 207 and 208 on the flyover. Students and staff will be "decanted" (not my word!) into the extra portables for several months, while the office ladies, Isabelle McKenzie and I 'decant' into the Administration portable. I do feel for my excellent colleagues, Assistant Principals, Ken Tenner and Glen Linton, on whose shoulders most of the burden of adjusting daily life and movement of 1300+ students will fall. The patience and co-operation of us all will be vital.

On Sunday, December the 1st at 8pm.

BE THERE!

– and also The Captain Matchbox Whoopee Band.

"Dost thou love life? Then do not squander time, for that's the stuff that's life is made of". (Benjamin Franklin circa 1790)

"I love life but I'm a shocker at time management". (Andrew Lovitt, 2002)

In all of us there is possibly a feeling of unfinished business. This is cheerfully dedicated to many who may have known me in Camberwell High School during the 1960s and I'm grateful for the opportunity. Thank you CHAOS!

I was in 1st form in 1961 and should have been in 6th form in 1966. But I missed a year as an exchange student and had to repeat Matric so I would be known to the graduating classes of 1966,67 and 68.

More importantly I'm the brother of Nonie, Charles and Michael. The four of us enjoyed to the hilt the high standing and the traditions of Camberwell High School from the early 1950s to the early 1970s. Our Mum and Dad were school teachers (though never at CHS) and they shaped our attitudes as much as the school. It was a happy convergence of endeavour, philosophy and family tradition. (Not that I would have used those words back then).

My discourse answers give more reflections but I must also mention the all-night poker schools on Friday nights, the many summer days at our adjoining swimming pool, trips to swim in the Yarra at Warrandyte, the school trip to Warragul, and the heady days of watching the rowing, the cricket team winning most of the time, the football team winning some of the time and the soccer team.... well let's just say multi-cultural talents were slow to reach middle class Camberwell. Politics was paternal and boring but Gough Whitlam would change all that a few years hence. (I can remember my father saying he'd never voted for a winning politician in 40 years, his only regret of living in the blue ribbon seats of the eastern suburbs).

In 1969 I joined TAA as a management trainee in a scheme that sent me to do Eco/Pol at Monash on a part-time basis. I loved the airline business and even did a stint at Essendon Airport in the days before Tullamarine. The last few years I was in the Marketing Department as the classic stuff was done with Great Keppel Island and Take 7 holidays.

In the 1970s I was active with Rotaract, a spin off from Rotary, played lots of sport and did lots of travel, including many visits back to see exchange student dayfriends in upstate New York. I did manage one minor piece of fame: Australian Frisbee Golf Champion of 1977. Seriously!

Newly married to Anna (from Gulargambone, NSW) I resigned from TAA in 1980 and moved to a new career in Tasmania. I had a few fascinating years in Advertising and then Marketing and eventually joined a client full-time helping to run a car and campervan rental company. Including the consultancy I've been with AutoRent for 21 years and have just enough of a shareholding to keep my nose to the grindstone to make sure I can get 2 sons and 2 daughters through their schooling.

Tasmania is a wonderful lifestyle though you do have to have satisfying work. It is still a largely undiscovered demi-paradise. Launceston is a beautiful city with a pleasant inland climate. It used to take me only 5 minutes to get to work in peak hour, but it's now blown out to 5 and a ½ minutes.

As the years jog on, so do I. There are tracks by the river and there are the fun runs to aim for such as the Burnie 10, the Cadbury ½ marathon. (The cross-country training at CHS has stood me in good stead. Forgive the pride that I recall all we 3 brothers won the Open Mile at CHS. Oops, that dates us!)

Now for the big one and why I love CHAOS:

In July 1991 I attended a reunion of my old upstate NY High School. It was the 25th anniversary and my/their very first reunion. It was fantastic. I thought it could not be topped. I was wrong.

The October 1991 CHS reunion (Golden Jubilee) was like out of a time machine I was not expecting to encounter. These were the people I grew up with - over many years! I was dumbfounded I could have forgotten them in the deluge of life, career, family and all that. It was simply a wonderful emotional shock to 'rediscover' so many wonderful people, and a part of myself.

Di George, Liz Firth, Helen Nolt, Helen James, Julie Grant, Ian Messer, Rod Maddock, Ian McBain, Geoff Brain, Jack Levy (aka Eddie Goblet) and I'll bet I've offended some really wonderful other friends who were also there that weekend. It was as fabulous as it was unexpected. That was the big night at the Hyatt in town. The Sunday at the school was something else again. I really did cry singing the school song.

*Lest I get maudlin I had better sign off. I hope this reaches many of friends and tells them a little of what I've done, where I've been etc. I'm hoping there is some reciprocation through the pages of this newsletter or direct.

DISCOurse

Our 13 question questionnaire.....

Replies from Andrew Lovitt (1961-1968)

Which teacher inspired you at CHS?

Quite a few. I wish I could remember more names. But Ms Rusden certainly had energy and focus and cared (even for Martin Kuchmar who beat me hands down in the competition to be class clown). Does she still drive that blue Morris 1800?

Your funniest school memory?

Finding I have a vague recollection about someone having mixed ENO into the sugar bowl in the staff room. It was funny for about 0.5 seconds - until Mrs Levy (a Latin teacher with gravitas) stormed out into the hallway looking for culprits. A new school record was set for running the length of the corridor.

What subject did you hate and why?

Woodwork. I failed in first form. Followed by music. I was seriously tone deaf.

What school house were you in?

Churchill. I was one of 4 Lovitt kids who played/swam and cheered for the glory of the yellow. We all adored sport. My big sister, Nonie, was also Head Prefect, 6 years before me and dux of the school to boot. Groan - what a reputation to follow.

Can you hit the high note at the end of the school song?

I couldn't hit any of the notes. I sang a random version of the words. (So how come I had tears streaming down my face singing Disco Consulere Aliis in 1991?)

SENIOR MOVIES CHESHIRE

Do you still have any school library books?

I can remember falling in love with a young Librarian and she tried to teach me how to take out a book. Alas, the administrative difficulty of that step defeated me so I retreated to the sporting fields and volleyball courts.

Your favourite sport or, conversely, what sport did you try to get out of?

My group played Volleyball before school, lunchtimes, recesses and after school. Several of the then teachers also played regularly. Mr Kamphausen was one.

What did you do on the last day of school? (we won't tell the police)

I did 6th form (12th grade?) three times; once as an exchange student in 1966 in upstate NY. Then in 1967 and again in 1968 at CHS. (Getting into Uni in those days wasn't easy for somebody like me who didn't know how to take out a library book). Having dropped back several years behind my peers my final day at Camberwell High was highlighted by sighs of relief from the staff room.

Who was your best friend at school?

I can remember David Harewood, John Patrick in the early years. Later there was Max Fraser, the McBains, the Maddocks etc. Then there was the academic group led by Jimmy Backholer. I always felt peculiarly lucky having friends in most of the sub-groups that formed in our generation (and between years as I dropped back and back).

What book are you reading now?

The story on the Ansett collapse. I love aviation. My first job out of CHS was with TAA; for 12 years (before coming to Tasmania).

Did you have a crush on a classmate?

There were many. Some silently rekindled during that wonderful 1991 reunion.

What classroom prank can you recall? (we know nothing)

Martin Kuchmar named his physics lab stool "Doris". He wrote it under the seat. We swapped it and substituted another. I never saw such distress (or acting prowess) when he discovered it. Ms Rusden did not know what to make of it and was genuinely flustered. It sounds silly but you had to be there at the time.

Did CHS have a lasting influence on your life?

Yes. The getting of wisdom started back then. It was special to me and, I'm certain, to many of my former classmates.

Some snaps from the 80s and 90s reunion.....

Alison Walter (née Harewood*) writes:

Soon after I finished my studies at Camberwell High School, my parents were transferred by The Salvation Army to Toronto, Canada, and I went with them. I met my Canadian husband, Stan Walter, and lived in Calgary, Alberta, for a year before we trained as Salvation Army officers (pastors/ministers). We served in a church for three years and then, because my husband has a degree in Maths and Physics, and hearing that teachers were needed in boarding schools in Zimbabwe (then Southern Rhodesia), we offered for missionary service.

In 1959, with two small children, we travelled by boat to Capetown, South Africa, and by train inland to Harare, Zimbabwe. Our third child was born whilst we were teaching on a mission station. That school, Mazowe Secondary School, is still one of the leading boarding schools of the country, preparing students for university. Because we lived some distance from the big city, it was my duty to teach our children their elementary grades, using correspondence lessons. After two years of home tutoring, they had to go to boarding school.

In 1964, we were transferred to another boys' boarding school in Kenya, on the border with Uganda. This was a newer school and my husband, as Headmaster, did a lot of pioneering work there. At that time, Kenya had recently become independent and it was an interesting contrast to the white government of Zimbabwe.

Following these six years in Africa, we returned to church work in Canada, which included several years on the staff of The Salvation Army's Training College (seminary) as well as youth work and administration.

In 1978, we were asked to return to Nairobi, Kenya. Leaving our children in university in Canada, we returned to Africa to give leadership to the church in Kenya, which has the largest membership in the Army world. After four years there, we were given leadership positions in the church in Canada.

In 1986, we were again challenged to return to Africa – this time to South Africa at a very crucial time in their political history. Ignoring the limitations of apartheid, we sought to care for, and help, all races. We had been living in Kenya when its beloved leader, Jomo Kenyatta died, and we were in South Africa when Nelson Mandela was released from imprisonment. What interesting times we have lived through!

To conclude our years of active service, we were sent to London, England, in charge of the Africa Desk at the Salvation Army's International Headquarters. This appointment necessitated visiting the many countries in Africa where The Salvation Army works with churches, schools, hospitals, clinics, etc.. Needless to say we have left part of our hearts in the great continent of Africa.

We still keep active in retirement in Toronto, Canada. My husband does the accounting at some of The Salvation Army's homeless shelters and I enjoy helping with grandchildren. It is interesting that, although, they were dependent on their mother for their elementary education, the three children have Masters Degrees in engineering, medicine and actuarial science/business administration.

CHESS Committee News -

DINNER PLANS FOR 2003

We are currently discussing the possibility of a dinner, late next year, for past students from every decade to make up their own tables...the idea to have a get-together on a smaller scale of the 1991 Hyatt Jubilee Reunion...with some entertainment and guest speakers.....so that we can have some fun! Of course, we would appreciate any forthcoming help from ex-students to give us some input and also help us organise the evening. Anyone who wants to be involved with this specific project, or better still, to join the committee, would be welcomed!

Give Bernard a ring on 9416-3155 (work) or 9429-5026 (home) or simply turn up at the meeting nights listed on the front of Chessmoves. (We still plan to have a 40s and 50s reunion in 2003, perhaps along the lines of the previous successful afternoon tea held a few years back.)

Our projection for this evening is a Friday/Saturday night, approximately $60 to $80 a head. Dress formal. All years – any ex-student. Tables to be organised through CHESS. Details will be in the March newsletter.

The CHESS Award for 2002 was awarded to Katherine Neuendorf, who also received the Senior Poetry Award on the Valedictory Night.

chessmoves website update

This last few months has been busy with behind-the-scenes letters to high achievers amongst our past students – to ask them to write biographies for the chessmoves website for the Gallery of Honour. It's coming along well and I have 12 profiles there with more to go. I find it fascinating to see how diverse this section is becoming....with all sorts of occupations and interests.

At the last reunion, I used a digital camera and the result is about 30 photos of the attendees, including the odd candid committee snap. Also, the virtual tour pages of the school have encouraged feedback with nostalgic emails from past students all around the world.

Please DO look at the site: <http://www.chessmoves.com> and if you have any candid photos you want featured, please email me.
